The 2010 International Arbitration Survey was conducted by the School of International Arbitration at Queen Mary, University of London. The survey was sponsored by White & Case LLP. It is one of the largest independent empirical studies ever conducted on corporate attitudes and practices regarding international arbitration. It is the largest of the three surveys conducted by the School of International Arbitration (the first two surveys were published in 2006 and 2008).

You may download the survey here. For further information please refer to:
